

Handling climate impact (fossil fuel policy)

This policy is common to AMF Pensionsförsäkring and AMF Fonder and is published.

AMF endeavours to contribute to a long-term sustainable development of society in accordance with the UN Sustainable Development Goals (2030 Agenda) as well as supporting the Paris Agreement on limiting global warming to less than two degrees.

AMF considers that today's level of use of fossil fuel cannot be maintained in the long term and that a comprehensive socio-economic transition towards significantly lower CO₂ emissions will take place. Against this background, AMF will strive to invest in companies that actively contribute to this transition. These companies are expected to have greater possibilities to deliver good returns over time.

When investing in sectors which have a high carbon footprint, AMF will strive to invest in companies that have a lower carbon footprint in relation to other players in the sector. Further, when investing in these sectors AMF will, through dialogue with holdings and through owner instructions for investments in associates, encourage them to reduce their climate impact.

For all investments the company's carbon footprint shall be taken into account when making an investment decision. In addition, AMF will totally avoid investments in companies where extraction of thermal coal exceeds 10% of sales.

AMF will at least annually measure and report the carbon footprint from holdings in listed equities as well as subsidiaries and associates.
